A Musical Success.

The Augustin Daly Musical Company is the title of the notable organization which played "A Country Girl," the latest Daly Theater success, in New York up to January 1, and was only compelled to leave that because of existing engagements at the theater which could not be canceled. After a run of one month in Boston and six weeks in Philadelphia the entire production and the original company, ircluding Miss Minnie Ashley, Mr. William Norris, Mr. Hallyn Mostyn, Miss Grace Freeman, Miss Devo. Miss Helen Marvin, Miss Genevieve Finlay, Mr. Melville Stewart, Mr. Clarence Harvey and an attractive chorus of sixty voices, come to the Columbia for a week's engagement, and Washington will see the latest thing in the line of English musical companies while yet in its first sea-son and full of freshness and vigor.

GRAND OFFICERS, I. O. O. F., COM-PLETE TOUR OF LODGES.

Wind-Up at Columbia, Where Grand Master Colison Receives Token of Regard.

The grand visitations of the grand offiers, I. O. O. F., to the subordinate lodges of that order came to a close last night at Columbia Lodge, No. 10, the home lodge of the grand master, George Zadock Colison. The visitation was held in the main hall of Odd Fellows' Temple, and called out the largest attendance of any of the grand visitations. The feature of the visitation was the rendition of the third degree (Truth) by the degree team of Columbia Lodge. J. Edward Fowler, degree master, and C. D. Shackelford, assistant degree master, performed the work, with all the accessories, elegant costumes and excellent music. The following formed the degree team: Noble grand, George Gerberich; R. S. N. G., D. W. Keck; L. S. N. G., R. E. Wines; vice grand, A. E. Burley; R. S. V. G., A. Lewis; L. S. V. G., George C. Carter; conductor, E. C. Grumley; warden, Andrew Turnbull; inner guardian, G. Taylor; priest of the military degree, F. B. Cowden; priest of the first degree, Dr. Smart; priest of the second degree, Thomas W. Fowler; priest of the third de-gree, George Z. As the degree team retired after an admirable rendition of the work it was rewarded by repeated rounds of applause. Silver Service Presented.

After the completion of the work Past Grand E. C. Grumley, in a neat speech, replete with Odd Fellow history, presented Grand Master Collson, on behalf of Columbia Lodge, with a handsome silver service. The grand master accepted with very earnest remarks, reviewing his connection of more than forty years with the lodge and

A Shield for the Padlocks.

The acting postmaster general has appointed Mr. Charles T. McCoy, assistant superintendent of city free delivery; Mr. T. Wallace MacGregor of the free delivery division of the Post Office Department and Maj. James E. Bell, superintendent of free delivery of the city post office, a committee to examine and determine upon the utility of a shield for the padlock used on the mail collection boxes by the post office. The post office officials have been much annoyed in the past by the effect of the winter weather on the old style padlocks sed on the mail collection boxes used throughout the country. During sleety weather these locks become clogged with ice and are difficult to open. The old style locks are the best locks used by the department, and it has been determined that if a shield can be devised to protect the lock from the weather the old style will be better than the new. No trouble has been experienced with the new locks. The committee will meet within a few days to begin its investigations. Its findings we be reported to the Postmaster General.

Where Baby Carriages Abound.

"Anent the discussion which has been aroused over President Roosevelt's recent utterances on the subject of race suicide," declared an observant young matron the other day, "I would like to have some one explain to me why it is that in front of the shops on 7th street on pretty days one will find scores of baby carriages with the preclous infants seated comfortably in the vehicles, while on F street, G street, Pennsylvania avenue and 14th street, one rarely sees a baby carriage? I have often noticed this unusual condition of things in my shopping tours. You visit the shops elsewhere and you see nothing out of the or-dinary. But once you are in the heart of the 7th street shopping district, you begin to observe a baby carriage every now and then. Coming to look about you they are to be seen almost everwhere. Seventh street seems to be the home of the baby carriage and the young ones appear to have a fine time while their fond parents are inside the stores. Many of the bables are left entirely alone, but one seldom hears a cry. They are usually pretty well provided with toys or gimeracks and while away their time in contented fashion.
"But why are there no baby carriages on

Mr. Hanna Saw the Joke.

Senator Hanna, although engrossed with the cares of business and politics, never fails of an opportunity to enjoy a good laugh, even if it be at his own expense. He is fond of the theater and is a frequent attendant. It may not be generally known, but Mr. Hanna is the sole owner of the Euclid Avenue Opera House, the principal theater of Cleveland, Ohio.

Senator Hanna occupied a box at the Columbia Theater Wednesday evening. In the box adjoining him was Senator Bailey, with a party of friends. Particularly did Senator Hanna enjoy the witty sallies of Mrs. Callahan, describing her father's abilities as a Tammany politician in New York. In one part of "The Auctioneer," where Mrs. Callahan observed that angels might be found in heaven but not in religious. be found in heaven, but not in politics, the Ohio senator fairly roared with mirth, while his rotund form shook "like a bowl full of jelly," to use a phrase from the old Christ-

Consideration of the final disposition of the Civic Center library was postponed until a future meeting. The intention of the council seems to be to offer the collection to one of the local libraries.

The Charge Sustained.

Laura Hopkins, a colored resident of Louse alley, wearing a flaring pink waist and a white hat with bright green decorations on it, was a defendant in the Police Court this morning charged jointly with Fannie Chapman and Edith Smith, colored, with being vagrants. "We ain't no vagrants," the women declared in chorus, after the clerk had read "These people are the worst that I know," Mounted Policeman Williams told the court.

"What do you mean by that?" his honor asked the officer. "They are drunk most of the time and all three of them are to be seen on the streets at any hour of the day and night," the policeman replied.

"We don't live in the alley," said Fannie, speaking for herself and Edith. "We were just calling on Laura when the policeman

"He was driving a cart loaded with soft coal along Massachusetts avenue near North Capitol street yesterday afternoon, and he left a black trail behind him," the policeman answered. "What was the cause of it?" Judge Kimball inquired.

"He had too much coal on the cart and it fell over the back of the cart.' "A person who would do that can't be right," the prosecuting attorney remarked.

Street Last Night. Cries of "Murder!" following the reports of two pistol shots attracted the police and a number of citizens to 11th street northwest between B and C streets about 2 o'clock this morning. Inmates of houses on 11th street near the scene of the shootng were considerably alarmed and intense excitement prevailed for a short time. Two soldiers were found on the street by the police, and it developed that they had been fired upon by an unknown colored man. It was alleged that the soldiers had broken glass in the window of one of the houses on 11th street and the colored man had used his weapon in defense of the occupants of the house. There was no one to enter com-plaint against the soldiers and they were not arrested. A search was made for the man who used his weapon in defense of the people whose house had been attacked, but he could not be found. The breaking of the
